I have seen men with limbs off and arms and chin shot off and ears and mouth cut off and all over and the hardest sight that I ever witnessed was to see a boy a boy of the age of ten when he came in an ambulance with a gun that had shot through the thigh the gun was shot through the temple of it had blown both eyes out of his head They hung down on his cheeks and his face was all blood and the eyes alone and the boy hadn't his head and he kept a clawing the sides of the ambulance and not a word would you hear from him This is true See him I thought of woman I never want such a mad man But see what the man I say I tell you that the wounded men of them drive hard here they are two of them carried in on gas as some fifteen miles and then they got there they five one stuck one they it is tough
