

CONFIDENTIALITY AND RELEASE OF INFORMATION

Employees shall not disclose confidential information without proper approval. Information normally regarded as confidential includes, but is not limited to, student information, college business, personnel information, and financial data. A breach of confidence may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination.