Maintenance worker reported that between 10:15 PM, Tuesday, 6/6/17 and 2 PM, Wednesday, 6/7/17, someone entered the maintenance closet, poured contents of an Expo White Board Cleaner bottle into a box containing his book and other miscellaneous items, and then set the bottle in the box, perhaps to make it look as though the bottle was leaky.

Complainant checked and noted the bottle did not appear to be leaking. He used several rags to clean up the mess.

This afternoon, complainant stopped writer and asked to report the incident. He pointed out the box and the bottle, which was nearly empty and did not appear to show signs of any leaks.

He said this is not the first incident that has occurred. He indicated that he reported the incident to his supervisor. He added that he is just interested in having this kind of behavior stop.
