Narrative:

Complainant is an instructor at Monroe Community College, Whitman Center in Temperance, MI., who teaches at the Whitman Center on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7:00 pm til 8:20 pm. On Monday 09-25-2017 the instructor spoke to the officer and said he was having a problem with an unruly student and he anticipated a problem the next class on Wednesday 09-27-2017. He asked the officer what he should do. The officer told the instructor to contact the officer if a situation occurs. The officer met with the instructor on 09-27-2017 at 6:45 pm prior to the class starting. He said that he had informed his department head of the situation with the unruly student. The officer again told the instructor that if he needed help the officer would be there to help him and make frequent passes by the class room. On 09-27-2017 at about 8:35 pm the officer could hear raised voices coming from the north hall. The officer exited the Whitman Center and heard the suspect telling the instructor " I'm outta here you (expletive)" as he was walking out of the classroom and toward the exit. The officer observed the suspect leaving the building through the north entrance door. The suspect went directly to his vehicle and drove out of the parking lot without incident. The officer returned to the classroom and met with the instructor, who told him that the suspect was the last student in his classroom and when he questioned the suspect's attitude in the classroom, the suspect told him "(expletive) you, I'm outta here you (expletive) ". The officer escorted the instructor out of the Whitman Center as a precaution. The instructor said he will report the incident to his department head. Status: Referred to the Math Department and Dr. Randy Daniels.
